

ABSTRACT

Pr. Prof. univ. dr. IOAN MOLDOVEANU

I tried to outline in this paper the documented professional achievements obtained after conferring the title of Doctor of Theology, which proves the originality and relevance of academic contributions, and anticipating scientific and professional development of future independent academic careers.

The thesis is based on the results of published scientific or professional achievements made public before their case Empowerment and after obtaining a doctoral degree, referring to these publications. Were presented briefly in order to indicate progress and career development academic, scientific and professional, and the main directions of its future development and in the overall context of significant scientific achievements and current in my field of specialty.

So I tried to show how, over time, I was interested in the light of several aspects of our church history, such as the Romanian principalities relations with Mount Athos, of Hesychasm us, the movement of patristic works in us, especially in the context of the current context of shaping a materialized hesychast many writings of St. translation. Fathers and new. I was concerned also the issue Uniate, deepening this issue on several occasions. I was concerned, among other things, by reconstituting the history of major churches (Cotmeana) or various aspects of church history during some of the great rulers of the country.

Followed deepening the Uniate issue, which helped me to get familiar with a sufficiently rich and consistent bibliography on the history of this event, converted, imperceptibly, the Church as an institution. The research I have sent in two directions: the attitude of the clergy and faithful in Transylvania to something that seemed foreign to their spirituality.

Of this research was to return in the following years by adding new evaluations accompanied by a translation of a text written in 1927 in the journal Irenikon. By one of the teachers at the Oriental College in Rome, Charon or Cyril Cyrill Korolevskij, Russian native naturalized in France. We therefore sought to translate this text and bring it to the public with my old studies, reviewed in 2013, given such a book titled "Returning the Romanian Uniatism".

DoctorL period gave me the opportunity to take care of another great theme of Romanian religious historiography, namely the Romanian-Athonite matter, matter that bothers me still, seemingly inexhaustible. To this there had been concern in the eighth decade of the last century, from two great scholars: Father Theodore Bodogae (Romanian Aid at Mount Athos, Sibiu, 1941) and Peter Watercress (Le Mont Athos et les Roumains, Rome, 1986). While the former suffers from gaps, entitled for the period in which it was written, while remaining best work in Romanian until this, the other in French, complements the deficiencies of the former containing a scientific analysis of documents made by the author himself them, whose exactness is now too well known. We felt welcome to fill this gap and, behold, today we have an image closer to reality and help the Romanian documents last appearances of Mount Athos, seen and cataloged over the last two decades of Slavic Florin Marinescu Athens.

Athonite issue opened my other themes and perspectives that of Hesychasm, but for a broader research on the movement of patristic literature in Romanian space. There are two themes already announced as part of the course of my research.

This chapter brought me, then, to approach other issues, that the translation of patristic literature to us and its movement in the Romanian space. That has to attend three international symposia, one in Greece and two in the country. It is the work of St. Nicodemus translation and circulation of these translations in Romanian, Slavic and Romanian translations circulation of the work of Gregory Palamas in the Romanian space, Sf. Basil Romanian culture, Sf. Gregory of Nazianzus and translations of his works (Slavic and Romanian) Romanian space.

I exposed here and plan their career development professional, scientific and academic.

Regarding the research and documentation, I include here that my participation active (supported communication) at least 15 conferences and symposia, national and international. I was busy editing four books, I was a member coordinating other four volumes and have published over 50 research articles and reviews and, of course, that others are being published, as can be seen from the CV and job list attached to this file.

I also was a member organizer of symposia and congresses.

All these activities will be educational and scientific realm like sustained and enhanced in the future.
